Subject: Discontinuation of the Max/Min Temperature and Precipitation
Table Product for all NWS Southern Region Offices: Effective July 1, 2024

Effective July 1, 2024, all NWS Southern Region (SR) Weather Forecast
Offices (WFOs) will discontinue issuance of the Maximum/Minimum (Max/Min)
Temperature and Precipitation Table Product (RTPxx and RTPxxx).

The information contained in the RTP duplicates information contained in other text products as well as various websites and NWS application programming interface (API).

WFO local products providing the data contained in the RTP product at individual locations include:

- * Daily Summary Message (DSM) Automated Surface Observing System (ASOS) Text Products for daily summaries of temperatures and precipitation from which the current RTP and CLI is constructed
- * Climate (CLI) Text Products for routine climate reports
- * Public Information Statement (PNS) Text Products for summaries of temperatures and precipitation during significant weather events
- * Record Event Report (RER) Text Products for record event reporting
- * RR3 Text Products for cooperative observations
- * MTR Text Products for routine METAR observations with temperature and precipitation data

Alternative websites providing the data contained in the RTP product at individual locations include:

- * NOAA Online Weather Data: <http://weather.gov/climate>
- * NWS Weather API: <https://www.weather.gov/documentation/services-web-api>
- * Aviation Weather Center API: <https://aviationweather.gov/data/api/#/>

Alternative web site providing the data contained in the RTP product with option to access data at multiple locations:

- * Regional Climate Center- Applied Climate Information System (RCC-ACIS):
<https://www.rcc-acis.org/examples.html>

As part of this webpage, SC ACIS is available to access data from multiple stations for a specific date at one time:

* SC ACIS: <https://scacis.rcc-acis.org/>

The weather enterprise and private sector companies may also provide tailored services.
